

10/26/20

MMS Families,

As mentioned in my email from Friday (10/23), we will be holding Virtual Parent-Teacher Conferences this fall. We do not have the same flexibility in scheduling as in past years due to some schedule changes that have most teachers with students for more time during the day. So, we will be offering two later-afternoon/evening sessions for conferences. Please reach out directly to teams and/or teachers if times don't work.

There are some slight variations within, but the dates are Thursday, 11/12 (4-7pm) and Tuesday, 11/17 (4-7pm). These will be completely virtual using Google Meets. The video conference link (as well as potentially a phone number and pin if you choose to join that way) will be sent to the email noted on Sign-Up Genius. More information to come on how the evenings will work; including instructions on how to join.

Additionally, if a team is splitting into two pairs for conferences (which most teams are), please only sign up to meet with one pair (to keep slots open for others). They will report out on what the other two have to say.
